Lausanne, 15 May 2024 - EHL Hospitality Business School is proud to announce that it has been re-accredited by the New England Commission of Higher Education (NECHE). NECHE, founded in 1885 as the world's first quality assurance agency is recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education as a reliable authority on the quality of education for the institutions it accredits in the U.S. and overseas.

EHL Hospitality Business School has been accredited by NECHE since 2003 and has worked to maintain alignment with the NECHE Standards throughout its evolution. Upon the conclusions of the peer-review team and the self-study report, NECHE's Commissioners elected to renew EHL Hospitality Business School's accreditation for 10 years.

"Our long-standing association with NECHE as an accredited member brings significant benefits to the school and its internal community. This includes a valuable system of shared governance, the award of US credits and accessibility to U.S. federal funds to eligible students. Most of all, it is the alignment with the NECHE standards which brings a remarkable added value in terms of maintaining the highest educational effectiveness for our students and learners", enthused Dr. Juan-Francisco Perellon, Chief Academic Officer of EHL.

The NECHE evaluators indicated that the school is a well-run, fine institution which was able to navigate the recent challenges brought about by the pandemic. They also recognized that the EHL community is fully engaged, and that the institution is forward looking. In highlighting the school's strengths, the peer-reviewers notably remarked on EHL's well-earned global reputation which brings a strong organizational culture.
